The survey was conducted through interviews with respondents on questionnaire on cleanliness indicators, which was done face-to-face by survey teams by visiting each of 407 stations across 16 Zonal Railways. Every passenger was asked to rate cleanliness of stations objectively on 40 different cleanliness parameters. K'taka-cadre IAS officer found dead on birthday

Lucknow

A Karnataka-cadre IAS officer was found dead Wednesday morning under mysterious circumstances on a roadside in the high-security Hazratganj area here, hardly a kilometre away from the Uttar Pradesh Assembly which is in session now.

In a quirk of fate, the body of Anurag Tiwari, 36, posted as commissioner in the department of food, civil supplies and consumer affairs in Bengaluru, was found on his birthday, near a government guest house on Meera Bai Marg where he was staying. Police said prima facie it appeared to be "death due to traumatic injury". "The exact cause will be known after post-mortem examination," Senior Superintendent of Police Deepak Kumar said.

Tiwari, a 2007 batch IAS officer, was staying at the Meera Bai Guest House in the busy area for the last two days with a batchmate after attending a mid-career training programme at Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration in Mussoorie. He was in his sleepwear when he was found dead. Police said there was an injury on his chin and did not rule out that he may have been hit by a vehicle during his morning walk. Police said a preliminary examination confirmed an injury on his chin and no other injury was visible. Inspector Gen-

FATHER CRIES FOUL, ALLEGES MURDER

His father, however, alleged that his son was murdered. "My son was very honest. Corrupt officers did not like him. They must have somehow got him murdered," Anurag's father B N Tiwari said in Bahraich, his native place. "He was the youngest of my three sons and had got selected in the IAS in the first attempt. A year after his selection, he got married. But, his relations with his wife were strained and this year he got himself legally separated from her," he said.

eral of Police, Lucknow range, J N Singh said Tiwari might have suffered a heart attack. He said a team of forensic experts from Lucknow's State Forensic Science Laboratory will examine the officer's body and the exact cause of death could be ascertained only after autopsy. PTI

Jaitley irked as Jethmalani calls him 'crook'

New Delhi

The cross-examination of finance minister Arun Jaitley by senior advocate Ram Jethmalani in Delhi High Court was interrupted on Wednesday after the minister objected to the use of the word 'crook' against him.

Jaitley, who was present in court in connection with the defamation case he filed against Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal and other AAP leaders, furiously asked Jethmalani whether the word was used by him in his personal capacity or as per the instruction from Kejriwal.

"I will aggravate the charges against the defendants (Kejriwal)... There is a limit to personal malice," Jaitley said. Asked to clarify the source of the word 'crook', Jethmalani said the word had been used by him on instruction from his client (Kejriwal).

Senior counsels Rajiv Nayyar and Sandeep Sethi representing Jaitley objected to Jethmalani referring to the Minister as being 'guilty of crime and crookery". During the proceedings, Jethmalani and some lawyers defending the AAP leaders contended that Jaitley was not entitled to Rs 10 crore damages he had sought from Kejriwal and others.

Joint Registrar (JR) Deepali Sharma disallowed the question by Jethmalani in which he alleged Jaitley of trying to stall publication of an article in a newspaper. "The question is disallowed as the article has been observed to be irrelevant by the court on May 15, 2017. Moreover, the defendant number 1 (Kejriwal) is seeking to make specific inquiries into a matter, which is not in issue in the instant case," the JR said.

Jaitley was being cross-examined by Kejriwal's counsel and senior advocate Jethmalani in connection with the Delhi and District Cricket Association (DDCA) defamation case filed by the minister. In December 2015, Jaitley filed a civil defamation case against Kejriwal and AAP leaders Kumar Vishwas, Ashutosh, Sanjay Singh, Raghav Chadha and Deepak Bajpayee, claiming that they made 'false and defamatory' statements in the case involving DDCA, thereby harming his reputation. Jaitley has sought Rs 10 crore in damages from Kejriwal and other AAP leaders. He had claimed that the AAP leaders attacked him over alleged irregularities and financial bungling in Delhi's cricket association, of which he was the president for about 13 years.

The court has listed the case for further cross-examination on July 28 and 31. IANS

Controversial Kolkata cleric sacked as head of Tipu Sultan mosque

Kolkata

Controversial imam Maulana Noor-ur-Rahman Barkati was on Wednesday removed as head cleric of the prominent Tipu Sultan mosque here by the wakf trustee board for making 'anti-national' statements.

"We have sent him a notice of termination and he has been asked to vacate the office room allotted to him. We have asked his deputy to conduct prayers and we will appoint a new imam very soon," Prince Ghulam Ahmed Wakf Estate trustee Arif Ahmed told reporters.

"We have removed him as the imam of the mosque for his anti-national statements. We never expect an imam, who is a religious person, to cross his line and misuse his post," he said.

Ahmed denied that there was any political pressure to remove Barkati and said the cleric had been issued show cause notice earlier also for his objectionable speeches. Barkati had been embroiled in a controversy last week when he refused to remove the red beacon on his vehicle, saying it was his right to use it. "I am a religious leader and I have been using the red beacon for decades. I do not follow the orders of the Centre. Who are they to order me? In Bengal, only the orders of the state government are effective. I will use the red beacon," he had asserted. Ahmed said, "Barkati had shown disrespect to our national leaders and he was using the mosque for political purpose and for his own financial gains. He was cautioned earlier for his activities. Recently, he was served a show-cause notice for his speeches to incite people," he said.

Asked if Barkati was removed due to political pressure, Ahmed said, "There was no such pressure." On what steps the board would take in the event of Barkati refusing to step down as Shahi Imam, he said, "In that case we will go for legal action." PTI

After threatening to embrace Islam, Valmiki get haircut after 70 years

Denied a haircut due to an upper-caste diktat, Valmiki men had to travel 15 to 20 kms to get haircuts

Sambhal

For 70 years, members of the Valmiki community in Uttar Pradesh's Fatehpur Shamsol village were denied a haircut due to an upper-caste diktat. That changed yesterday -- but only after they threatened to convert to Islam.

The barbers in the village had shut their shop for the last one month, as for the first time in decades, they were asked to give haircuts to the lower-caste Valmiki. With the intervention of police and district administrative officials, the stand-off ended yesterday.

about 15,000 Thakurs and Brahmins, and about 1,250 Valmiki in 250 families. "Yesterday (Tuesday), people from different communities interacted with officials of police and district administration, and the deadlock was resolved. After this, the barbers started accepting Valmiki as their customers," said Sanjeev Sharma, a former village pradhan, who brokered the peace.

For decades since Independence, Valmiki have allegedly not been allowed to get haircuts or shaves from the village barbers, because upper castes declared they would boycott the 'impure and unhygienic' razors. A month ago, however, a Muslim barber agreed to give haircuts to a Valmiki family. But he refused to attend to them when they later on turned up for a shave, allegedly under upper-caste pressure. This snowballed into a major agitation, with all the Valmiki of the village threatening to convert to Islam.

"Almost a month ago my cousins, Anil, Bhura and Birjesh Valmiki had got haircuts at Asif Ali's saloon. A few days later, when they turned up for a shave, Asif refused. He was beaten up by upper caste villagers because he broke the rule," said Saurabh Valmiki.

"Other barbers also refused to give us haircuts or a shave out of fear. We filed a police complaint against them. By the time the police reached the village, all the barbers had shut shop and fled," he said. Additional SP Sambhal, Pankaj Pandey, said, "The barbers have agreed to cut hair of members of the Valmiki caste and a few Valmiki even got haircuts. Earlier, we had received a complaint in this regard."

Over the past few decades, Valmiki men had to travel 15 to 20 kilometres to towns like Chandausi, Bhajoe and Islamnagar to get haircuts. Valmiki is a Dalit community which has historically faced exclusion and oppression in the upper caste-dominated society and has frequently been affected by anti-Dalit violence and repression by members of other castes.
